

PRESS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Global Joomla Community Gathers in Europe for Flagship World Conference 2026

The global community behind the open-source content management system Joomla will gather this October for the return of the Joomla World Conference, taking place 16–18 October 2026 in Potsdam, Germany.

Bringing together developers, agencies, business users, accessibility specialists, volunteers and digital leaders from around the world, the conference offers two and a half days of learning, collaboration and innovation across four parallel session tracks.

The Joomla World Conference represents one of the most important opportunities for the international Joomla ecosystem to connect in person, exchange ideas and shape the future direction of the platform.

Some platforms chase trends. Joomla powers organisations and businesses that need their website to work on a boring Tuesday in 2029! This is where you meet the people who make that happen.

Attendees can expect:

- Expert-led technical and strategic sessions
- Practical workshops for developers and site builders
- Business and agency growth insights
- Accessibility and inclusion discussions
- Sponsor showcases highlighting tools and services supporting Joomla users worldwide
- Networking with contributors and decision-makers from across the global Joomla community

As artificial intelligence continues to reshape how websites are built and managed, the Joomla community is exploring what this means for a CMS grounded in transparency and user control.

Sessions will look beyond the hype to examine:

- AI-powered workflows
- intelligent accessibility tooling
- smarter site management approaches

– all while maintaining Joomla's strong commitment to open-source principles.

On Friday evening, all attendees come together for the official conference dinner, included with every ticket, recognising that some of the most valuable conversations happen around a shared table as much as on stage.

With strong international participation expected, organisers are encouraging attendees to secure their place now.

“The Joomla World Conference is where ideas become collaborations and collaborations become the future of Joomla. It’s a unique opportunity to meet the people behind the project, share knowledge and help shape what comes next together.”

Full event details and ticket information are available at:

<https://conference.joomla.org/>

About Joomla

Joomla is an award-winning open-source content management system used worldwide to build websites and digital applications. Supported by a global volunteer community, Joomla powers organisations of all sizes across government, education, non-profit and commercial sectors.

Media Contact

Joomla World Conference Team

Open Source Matters

Email: contact@conference.joomla.org

Website: <https://conference.joomla.org/>